I was about to take the elevator when I peeked out from the window and saw it raining. If it weren't for that, I would have been in the middle of the storm!

It got weird pretty fast... But the "lightning damage" is quite good

It is extremely difficult to finish the last enemy with a "James Williams double dash" due to the aiming time required. However, what Synth did on September 5 is guaranteed to blow your mind.

Synth started out as a Defender Class, crafted his favorite weapons and marched his way through the first 6 levels. On his 7th level, Synth unluckily encounters three enemies flanking him from the entrance to the next level. One enemy opened fire with their "Jingle remote fire" skill, closing the gap between the players. The enemies activated shield, but Synth used three grenades and cleared level 7. After this fight, Synth has only 12 HP left, rendering level 8 critically dangerous.

Synth tried to sneak pass level 8, but got spotted by an opponent. Five players were remaining, and the opponent chose to open fire. Synth sprinted towards the exit, but took 7 HP damage, leaving him with only 5 HP.

When Synth reached level 10, there was only one enemy left. The enemy was a Support Class, also critically damaged. The enemy came at Synth. Synth dodged four attacks and was out of stamina. Things weren't looking good for Synth. Synth quickly looked at his skill cool down, and knew what to do to finish the match.

Synth starting aiming. He used his "James Williams double dash". The enemy was stunned, but Synth managed to kill it with a single hit.

Very neat!!!!!! It remembers the beginning of the passage!
